[Correspondence of the Herald.] Washington, May 1, 1845. This is May day, and in this region it is kept up with considerable pemp and ceremony. The mili-tary are out parading with drum and fife, and all the paraphernalia of war. So are the odd fellows showing themselves, with bands playing, and ban-hers flying. The market carte are garnished with boughs of trees, and the stands with bunches of flowers. The markets are crowded with pretty girls, looking at, pricing and purchasing flowers, wherewith to decorate themselves to attend the May Ball, this evening, at Carusi's Saloon. Every scene of unusual bustle all day in consequence; and, to add to the rest, the magistrates of the dis-trict have revived a custom, which was practised in the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren, in the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren, of proceeding in procession to the White House, and paying their respects to the President, who received them kindly, as is his wont.

Mr. Burke, ex. M. C., from New Hampshire, author of the famous khode Island report, which every body prayers as a monument of wisdom and political research, because it is so long that no one has ever read it, has bren appointed Commissioner of Patents, vice E Isworth resigned. That is unother ex. M. C. provided for.

Mr. Budluck, ex.-M. C. from Pennsylvania, has been offered the Post of Charge to New Granada, the most important of the South American Charges, and will probably accept, and be accompanied by Mr. Jewett, who goes to Peru, as far as Panama; as I learn, that is the route which Mr. Jewett proposes to take. There's another ex-Member of Congress provided for.

The Committee on Eagravirgs, Mr. Simmons, of Condection, I understand, wants something, and is very mad with President Polk on some account of oither. Another ex-Member of Congress to be provided for.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, April 8, 1816.

Sis: I transmit, herewith, for your information and government, a printed copy of an act of Congress, and to extend the term of one of the property 29th, 1845, entitled "An act to amend he act catalied." An act to provide for the enlistment of seamen." The first section provides for the insument of seamen." The first section provides for the insument of seamen." The irst section provides for the insument of seamen." The irst section provides for the insument of seamen. "The irst section provides for the insument of seamen." The irst section provides for the insument of seamen." The irst section provides for the insument of seamen. The irst section of any provide and detention shall not exceed the term of hirty days from the time of the arrival in a port of the Jaited States of the vessel on board which such person may be serving. The second section confers consular powers, in relation to mariners, upon the commanding officer of any vessel, squadron or fleet of the navy of the Justed States, when upon the high seas, or in any foreign out where there is no resident Consul.

That you may understand more fully what are the powers and duties of the U. S. Consuls in relation to mariners of the United States, I have caused to be aided to the thore named act, the third and fourth section of an act upproved February 28th, 1803, the instructions from the board manded of the third and fourth section of an act upproved February 28th, 1803, the instructions from the decion, and a copy of the act approved July 20th, 1840, milled "An act in a listion to the several acts regulating he shi ment and discharge of seamen, and the duties of tonsuls."

You will cause the first section of the act of February 28th, 1840, and 1841.

Washington, May 1, 1845.

Mr Ritchie arrived last evening from Richmond, to take charge as government editor of the new official paper, the Union. which has been formed from the ruins of the Globe, the first number of which will be issued to day. So it may be said that old January begins this year with May.

I have an acquaintance with Mr Ritchie, and have seen him this morning. He is sixty-nine years of age, of a tall, thin, spare form, rather bent, good eye, long slim face, somewhat like Amos Kendall, but much better looking, and of considerable neatness in his dress. In his manner he is off ible, and inclined to talkativeness; but this faculty, he will have to give up, after a week's company with the present mum Cabinet. An editor who exercises an influence in abstracted Virginia, will find himself in a strange atmosphere, when he launches unfledged on a new career a Washington. Mr. Ritchie, as the head of the Enquirer, has been accustomed to dictate to his party in his State, and is locked up to there, as one of her big men; but he will soon find that even a great man's soudow is very small here. It is said that Mr. Ritchie is very fond of reading the London Punch, and it is a fact that his brought a targe bundle of those papers with him it Washington. So the new organ will not be voic of wit. considerable neatness in his dress. In his manner

Carolina, and in virtue of Gen. Jackson's celebrated toast.

The Cobinet are still holding their daily and nightly conferences about foreign affairs, but can come to no decision on a single given point. They are just about awakening to the idea of each other's immotence in matter's of state, and are taking time to consider.

The Virginia elections being over, and demociatic, the removals will con inse with great rigor.

The Congressional election in Virginia, will not be so bad as supposed, for the wings. They will get two members, and there are two er three others, who are elected almost entirely by while votes This same party had but three elected to the last Chogress. It the whigs in the west are active this summer, the majority in the next House of Representatives will be very doubtful.

It is not decided positively, whether Mr. Blair, late of the Globe, accepts the appointment to Russia, or Ichasoe.

Trial of Captain Wilkes.

Dinsman, et al. ve. Wilkes. Action for damages, for illegal detention, whipping, &c. of plaintiffs, (three marines of the Exploring Expedition,) by defendant. Mr. May, for the plaintiffs, addressed the jury for two hours, on the meeting of the Court. Mr. Bradley, for the defendant, at 5 o'clock, having been five hours on the floor, still maintains it. Mr. May will reply, when the case will be submitted to the jury, and a decision may possibly be had to-night.

New Obleans, April 24, 1846.

This some time since I have hed this pleasure. Since the date of my last, how fully my views regarding the openations in Sugars have been realised. The speculation has been entered into, and in the space of ten days, prime Sugars have advanced two and a halfors, per lb. I This week there has been a decline of a halfornt, and why? There are now some 6000 hhds, on the Levee (a very large stock) owned by two or three individuals, and purchased at prices ranging from 3½ to 4½c. On Monday last 2000 hhds, were placed in the market at a decline of halfornt on? This is called a decline, and the 20.00 hhds are offered at that. Lots in first hands, on plantation, amounting to about 5000 hhds, may be bought at this decline at the sugars, (4.000 hhds) are in treaty, and it closed this week, on Montay the prices will be up and the planter left to imagine how, with the increased stock, he market could advance. A gentleman of your city, who had an itea, in the commencement of the season, of touching Sogars, has been offered to day $150.050! for his profit on Sugars, within the last six weeks. Rather handsome pay for a win er's residence in one of the most designiful countries in the Union.

We are all up and doing in raising funds for our Pittsburg fleads, and let it not be said that Louisians shall send a larger purse than your good State—they came NEW ORLEANS, April 24, 1845.
